

POLITICAL SCIENCE

THE UNIVERSITY OF MISSISSIPPI

The Department

The Department of Political Science offers an M.A. and a Ph.D. designed to prepare students for careers in academia, research and government.

Graduate studies in the department focus on three main fields of political science:

- American politics
- Comparative politics
- International relations

The department offers competitive funding packages, which include tuition waivers and graduate assistantships, and provides students with conference travel and statistical software support. The university offers a Diversity Fellowship Program in addition to departmental support.

The Program

- Empirically focused with rigorous but practical methodological and statistical training
- Includes experts in survey experiments and other leading empirical methods
- Small by design, to provide personalized attention throughout the program. Students have opportunities to work with faculty to develop their own research and teach their own classes.
- Recent Ph.D. graduates have earned jobs at a variety of academic positions from state flagship universities to liberal arts colleges as well as nonacademic positions.

Faculty Expertise

American Politics

Political behavior, elections, political psychology, state politics, political parties, race and ethnicity

International Relations

International conflict, civil wars, international organizations, political economy

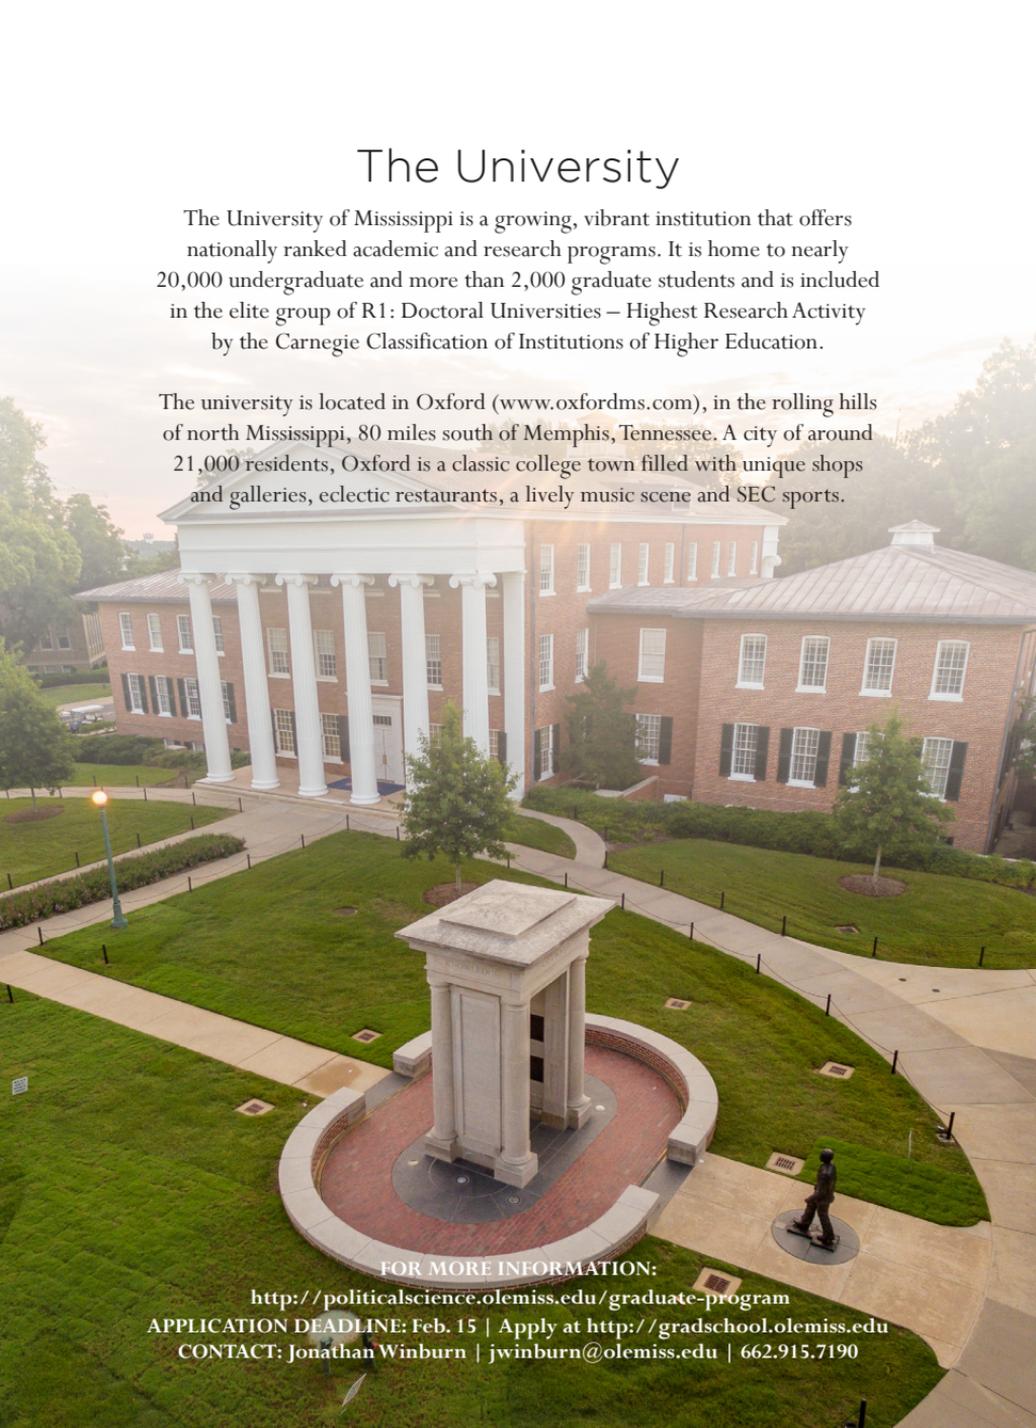

Comparative Politics

Political behavior, social movements, and institutions with area specialists in Latin America, the Middle East, China and East Asia, and Germany and Western Europe

The University

The University of Mississippi is a growing, vibrant institution that offers nationally ranked academic and research programs. It is home to nearly 20,000 undergraduate and more than 2,000 graduate students and is included in the elite group of R1: Doctoral Universities – Highest Research Activity by the Carnegie Classification of Institutions of Higher Education.

The university is located in Oxford (www.oxfordms.com), in the rolling hills of north Mississippi, 80 miles south of Memphis, Tennessee. A city of around 21,000 residents, Oxford is a classic college town filled with unique shops and galleries, eclectic restaurants, a lively music scene and SEC sports.

FOR MORE INFORMATION:

<http://politicalscience.olemiss.edu/graduate-program>

APPLICATION DEADLINE: Feb. 15 | Apply at <http://gradschool.olemiss.edu>

CONTACT: Jonathan Winburn | jwinburn@olemiss.edu | 662.915.7190